The 1960 Mercedes-Benz 220SE Ponton is a highly collectible and rare luxury convertible from the “Ponton” series, known for its graceful “pontoon” body style, advanced features for its time, and luxurious appointments. It is powered by a 2.2-liter fuel-injected inline-six engine that produces about 130 horsepower, paired with a 4-speed manual transmission. With only 1,112 examples of the 220SE Cabriolet built, it represents a significant piece of automotive history and remains sought after by collectors.

Key features

Engine: 2.2-liter, 130-hp inline-six with Bosch mechanical fuel injection.

Transmission: 4-speed manual.

Body: Two-door convertible (Cabriolet), part of the “Ponton” series, characterised by its integrated fender design.

Interior: Luxurious cabin with high-quality leather, hand-finished wood trim, and meticulous craftsmanship.

Advanced features: For its time, the car included features like fuel injection and independent front suspension.

Only 1,112 units of the 220SE Cabriolet were built between 1959 and 1960, making it a very rare model.
