Volkswagen Passat Type 3C MY15

Description

In very late 2014 this stunning Volkswagen Passat Alltrack came out at under $50K and what a great car it was and still is today. In silver metallic with black leather interior this one has the very desirable 130kW 2.0 litre turbo diesel engine with some great features. From heated front seats, 4-motion all wheel drive, panoramic sun roof, electric seats and dual zone climate air conditioning. We love cars like this that have only travelled 67,000 klms and it's actually an MY15 series with the whole new squarer front end. They are a great size, have a very wide boot and just drive so well with the razor sharp changes of the DSG gearbox. This car has travelled a fair bit of it's life from Sydney to Byron and feels as tight as a drum. With 380 Nm of torque and a claimed 6.3 litres/100 klms this is a great buy and should suit someone very well for many years of happy motoring. It has NSW rego until late 2018 and we look forward to showing you this car in person one day soon. As well as leather trim and heated front seats, there are daytime running lights (DRLs), automatic lights and wipers, an electric tailgate, electric parking brake, front-and-rear parking sensors and rear-vision camera, dual-zone climate-control air-con', 6.5-inch touchscreen with sat-nav and 30GB hard drive, one-touch up-and-down electric windows and Bluetooth connectivity with music streaming. To set it apart from the Passat wagon, the Alltrack also features under-body protection for the engine and transmission – a solid steel under-tray – and plastic protective body trims for the wheel arches and side-skirts.
